International Migratory Bird Day
Friday and Saturday, May 3–4, 2013

International Migratory Bird Day is the signature program of the organization Environment for the Americas. It is the only international education program that highlights and celebrates the migration of nearly 350 species of migratory birds between nesting habitats in North America and non-breeding grounds in Latin America, Mexico, and the Caribbean.

Public awareness and concern are crucial components of migratory bird conservation. Citizens who are enthusiastic about birds, informed about threats, and empowered to become involved in addressing those threats, can make a tremendous contribution to maintaining healthy bird populations. By modeling what can be done and involving people, interest and involvement in stewardship can grow.

As an official Bird City, Fond du Lac is pleased to offer the following activities for International Migratory Bird Day. (Wear comfortable shoes suitable for outdoor experiences. Bring binoculars if you have them.)

AUDUBON FIELD TRIPS

Spring Equinox Outing
Thursday, March 21, 8 am
When Dwight Weiser described early Native American artifacts visible on the Niagara Escarpment at our annual banquet, members requested a field trip to view these findings. Dwight has documented these phenomena and other mysteries of the Ledge in his book, Secrets of the Ledge. Join Dwight for a short walk to the Ledge to spot some possible archeoastronomy phenomena. Dwight will explain sight lines and some Native American lore about what we see. Meet at the Rienzi Cemetery parking lot, N6101 County Road K, Fond du Lac. Go left at the cemetery office to the parking lot. Dwight will lead us by car caravan and then on foot. Limited to 15 Audubon members. Contact Kathleen Stetter (920-872-2250 or Stetter@centurytel.net) to reserve a place.

Midwest Annual Crane Count
Saturday, April 13, 5:30–7:30 am

Sunset/Moonrise Paddle with Ted Eischeid at Supple’s Marsh in Fond du Lac.

We will paddle west on Lake Winnebago from Lakeside Park West as we enjoy the sunset, and then enter Supple’s Marsh as the near-full moon rises in the east. This will be an excellent opportunity to enjoy a natural experience in your own backyard. This event is open to a maximum of 10 canoes or kayaks. Those lacking a boat can indicate interest in sharing a seat on someone’s canoe when they register and every attempt will be made to accommodate their request. Life jackets and working flashlights required; insect repellent recommended! Register by contacting Diana Beck at dianahbeck@gmail.com or 922-7931.

2013 Garlic Mustard Pulls

Garlic mustard poses a severe ecological threat to native plants and animals in forest communities in much of the eastern and midwestern United States. Many native wildflowers that complete their life cycles in the springtime (e.g., spring beauty, wild ginger, bloodroot, Dutchman’s breeches, hepatica, toothworts, and trilliums) occur in the same habitat as garlic mustard. Once introduced to an area, garlic mustard outcompetes native plants by aggressively monopolizing light, moisture, nutrients, soil and space. Wildlife species that depend on these early plants for their foliage, pollen, nectar, fruits, seeds and roots, are deprived of these essential food sources when garlic mustard replaces them. Humans are also deprived of the vibrant display of beautiful spring wildflowers.

Welcome the Return of Dandelions

Almost everyone appreciates the beautiful yellow dandelion flowers that come with spring. Remember that all of the dandelion is edible and very nutritious. In fact, it is hard to find anything in the grocery store that compares nutritionally. The dandelion leaf is nature’s richest source of Vitamin A and beta-carotene (better than carrots), more calcium and iron than spinach, more potassium than bananas, twice the protein of eggplant, and the list goes on.

The trick to eating dandelions is to minimize the bitterness. Springtime before the flowers bloom is the best time to harvest the leaves. It also helps to cook and combine the leaves with other food ingredients that help to cancel the bitterness.

Crock-Potted Dandelions

8 cups dandelion greens, chopped coarsely
2 cups cream style cottage cheese
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 cups butter, cut into small pieces
1-1/2 cups cheese, diced into 1/2" pieces

Grease crock pot. Mix raw chopped dandelion greens with other ingredients. Cook 1 hour on high. Reset to low 2–3 hours. Some people like a little (1/4 tsp.) nutmeg, but the young folks like sweet basil and oregano. Creamy and yummy.
